

Mission

To provide access to traditional natural medicine and integrative medicine healthcare, and to promote humanitarian values through education

Contact: Dr. Paul Moon, DDS, IMD, DHS
Orthodont

Canadian College of Humanitarian Medicine

Professional development seminars and workshops.

ECLECTIC MEDICINE CERTIFICATION

Why Eclectic is vital for the survival of your practice

What is Eclectic Medicine?

Eclectic Medicine was a branch of American Medicine which made use of botanical medicine, selected non-patented remedies coupled with physical therapy practices. EM was made popular in the latter half of the 19th and first half of the 20th centuries. The term was coined by Constantine Samuel Rafinesque (1784 to 1841). He was a physician living amongst the Indigenous Americans, where He observed their use of medicinal plants and natural techniques. Rafinesque used the word “Eclectic” to typify physicians who employed whatever was found to be beneficial to their patients (eclectic being derived from the Greek word eklego, meaning "to choose from").

The Eclectics were physicians with a philosophy in "alignment with nature". Which combined the various concepts from many different disciplines. These revolutionary physicians opposed the practices of bleeding, purging and the use use of mercurial drugs which was common amongst the “orthodox” doctors of that era.

What is now known as Integrative Medicine is the resurgence of Eclectic Medical system.

With increasing side effect of modern drugs, injurious medical techniques and increasing high cost and control of the nutraceutical remedies, return to proven effective eclectic remedies techniques is most relevant for the wellbeing of client’s survival of your practice.

In this course you will learn non-invasive, eclectic medicine assessment techniques, simple eclectic medicine lab, and eclectic medicine dispensing and numerous protocols.

This course consists of three sections, upon completion for each section a certificate is provided and upon completion of all three sections a diploma in eclectic’s medicine will be awarded.

- Principle and practice of Eclectic Medicine (Section I)
- Eclectic medicine in office lab (section II)
- Eclectic medicine dispensary (Section III)

Fee: $800.00 each section (Doctors), $400.00 (Practitioner)

Date: September 28,29, 2017
(Session I), date for Session II and III
TBA

Text: Notes provided

Presenter

Dr. Sheila McKenzie,
RDH, PhD, IMD, DHMS, DHS
Since her entry in the healthcare field as a dental professional she has taken every effort to advance her profession into integrative medicine. In addition to her extensive academic credentials, in dental health care, homeopathy, orthomolecular nutrition and integrative medicine. She served as a Public Health Diplomat under the International Parliament for Safety Peace (2003-2013).

Dr. McKenzie has been a champion for the preservation of traditional and integrative medicine healthcare and humanitarian medicine. Dr. McKenzie is Dame Commander for Canada under the Sovereign Orthodox Order of Knights Hospitallers. She has been mentoring healthcare professionals in integrative medicine modalities and humanitarian medicine outreach since 2004. She is the head of the research supervisory team at the University of Humanitarian Medicine and is a UNESCO certified educator.